The First Meeting of the Society Takes Place in Strathcona Hall

The season of the McGill Philosophical Society opens this evening in Room B, of Strathcona Hall, when what proves to be an absorbing address will be delivered by Mr. W. H. McNelly. The subject is "The Theory of the Mean." Mr. McNelly is a very able exponent of everything pertaining to matters philosophical, and a full attendance of all students interested and who take the philosophy course is anticipated. Those who are not at present members of the society should, if they desire to join, communicate with C. H. Clark, Arts '16, immediately, or attend the meeting to-night. A good programme has been arranged for the coming year, and the society looks forward to an exceptionally good season.

PROF. G. MINES SUDDEN DEATH SATURDAY P.M.

Professor of Physiology Was Experimenting on Phenomena of Respiration Alone in Old Med. Building

IRREPARABLE LOSS

Although Just Recently Appointed the Late Professor Had Won Great Esteem Among his Colleagues

Inexpressible grief, mingled with something that amounted to consternation, was felt in McGill circles yesterday, when intimation was made of the death, under tragic circumstances, of Mr. G. R. Mines, recently appointed Professor of Physiology. It seems that the late Professor, who was devoted to practical experiments in his chosen subject, where he had already achieved a great reputation, was in the habit of going to his laboratory alone, for the purpose of watching the progress of some experiments which he had set up with the apparatus recently provided and placed under his control. Part of his method consisted, at McGill just as at Cambridge, in experimenting on himself. The late professor was a specialist in heart conditions, and the clinical members of the McGill Faculty of Medicine had begun to take a great interest in his scientific work, and were looking forward to utilizing the results of his investigations in connection with their own departments. Mr. Mines was particularly interested in the influence of various conditions on the heart, the pulse, and the phenomena of respiration, and it was in connection with, as research in this field, that he brought on his untimely end. A recording apparatus was found attached to his body, and connected with a large drum, on which the investigator had evidently intended to record certain results of his own respiration. He must have in some way lost consciousness in the course of the experiments, and perhaps as the results of some movements of

RAILWAY CLUB GO THROUGH THE TUNNEL

Ninety Members of the Club Are Out to See the Work

GREAT ACCURACY

Only a Fraction of an Inch Error When the Centres Met

On Saturday afternoon, through the kindness of Mr. S. D. Brown, chief engineer for Mackenzie & Mann, the Railway Club paid a visit to the C. N. R. tunnel, now being constructed through Mount Royal.

At 2 p.m. some 90 members met at the Union and proceeded to the Maplewood avenue shaft via Park avenue and Outremont, where they were met by Messrs. H. T. Fisher and M. W. Maxwell, of the Canadian Northern's engineering staff.

It was indeed a motley crew that gathered around the workings preparatory to going down.

The high boots and old clothes of survey school were again in evidence, with not a few suits of bright blue overalls, brought along by thoughtful Freshmen. Such preparations were found out later to have been almost unnecessary, as the bed of the tunnel was dry, with the exception of one or two spots.

After a few words of warning regarding live wires below, Mr. Fisher took the first lead in the cage down 238 feet to the level of the tunnel, while the rest of the party followed in bunches of ten or fifteen, as fast as the cage could be worked.

Going down through 238 feet of dripping darkness is in itself rather weird, and one almost expected to get a whiff of burning sulphur and to be greeted at the bottom by a gentleman with barbed tail and pitchfork. However, nothing of the supernatural being in evidence, the party scrambled through a passage partly blocked by fallen rock, and found themselves in the tunnel proper.

Mr. Maxwell, who brought up the rear, with the last load, recounted as they went along the difficulties met with during construction.

When work was commenced on the tunnel two years ago, operations were

VARSAITY'S ADVANTAGE IN WEIGHT MAINLY RESPONSIBLE FOR DEFEAT OF THE RED AND WHITE SATURDAY

McGill Defeated at Toronto by Score of Eleven to Seven in one of the Hardest Contested Games in Years

VARSAITY WINGS EXCELLED IN FOLLOWING UP UNDER KICKS

Blue and White Back Division Worked Well Together and in Kicking More Than Held Its Own With the McGill Backs

(By Staff Representative.)
By using their superior weight on the line in beating down McGill's defensive, and in giving their backs perfect protection, Varsity on Saturday were able to defeat the crack college fourteen from Montreal. The final score was eleven to seven in favor of the home team. The game was one of the hardest which has been played in the intercollegiate in the last two years. Varsity were out to revenge themselves for the defeat handed out to them last fall in Toronto by McGill, and worked like fiends from the first foot of the whistle. McGill were only able to assume the offensive during the first quarter, and it was in this period that all their points were scored. The heavy Varsity line had not made the slightest mistake at any stage of the game, but as play continued the Red and White wings began to tire under the heavy battering they were receiving, and during the last three-quarters play was nearly always in McGill territory. Varsity lost several chances to score, and were also repeatedly prevented from tallying by the great running of the McGill half-backs. In the first quarter McGill several times were able to look for yards, but towards the end of the game it was all the men could do to get through to follow down under kicks. Varsity have improved wonderfully since the game early in the season, when they were so decisively trounced by McGill in Montreal. Their whole team was more evenly balanced, the wings giving the backs perfect protection, while the latter returned kicks in fine style, and also ran many catches back for good gains, thus saving their wings a lot of running up and down the field. Taken altogether Varsity played a snappy game, and deserved to win on their showing.

Sheehy, Lindsay and Carr formed the Blue and White half line, and by their work marked themselves as being about as good a trio as have been seen in the intercollegiate for a couple of seasons. Their kicking was one of the features of the contest, as both in the punting from behind the scrimmage and when returning kicks they were more than holding their own with the McGill backs. Outside of Lindsay's fumble, which gave McGill her touchdown, the Varsity half line caught perfectly, and as the McGill wings were blocked effectively they generally had time to run back the catch a considerable distance before returning it or being tackled. Many half-back runs were tried by the Blue and White, but these did not get them much ground, and, in fact, were often thrown back for a loss. Carr was the particular star of the backs. He ran repeatedly for big gains, and did not seem to slacken up in the least, although he probably was tackled as often or even oftener than any other man on either team. He is not a big man, but has all sorts of speed. Sheehy also shone on the Varsity half line. He returned many catches for substantial gains, and was steady throughout. The steadiness of the Blue and White back division was a surprise to many of the team's supporters, as last week in Kingston this part of the Varsity team had shown a decided tendency to blow up on occasions. Lindsay did the punting for the Blue and White until he was hurt. He did not get the distance which George Laing was able to secure, but his kicks were as a result of this, of more use to his team, as Laing's punts were going too far for his wings to get down under them in time to tackle the man before he got started. George Laing, as P. D. Brown, played a wonderful game. He did not miss a catch throughout the whole contest, and several times recovered fumbles made by Paisley or Jeffrey. His kicking was good during the entire game, as his punts were well placed, even though they were going a little far on occasions. In the first quarter, when McGill had the ball close to the Varsity line, and could not get their yards in two downs, Laing, by punting almost straight up in the air, gave the Varsity backs a very hard catch to make, and Lindsay fumbled, thus presenting the Red and White with a touchdown. It was in the last quarter that George was particularly good. McGill were behind, and their only hope of winning lay in the fact that Laing or Jeffrey might break away for a run. Laing

ST. MICHAEL'S STRONG FOURTEEN DEFEATED THE MCGILL SECONDS AND GAINED A TWO POINT LEAD

The McGill Intermediates go to Toronto next Friday with a lead of two points to overcome in the home-and-home series with St. Michael's as a result of their defeat at the hands of the latter here on Saturday. The best that the Seconds could do was to capture the short end of an 8-6 score.

The aggressive offensive play of St. Michael's, together with the bag of tricks unloosed by Father Carr, who has made the St. Michael's team what it is, were undoubtedly the chief factors in bringing about the defeat of the Intermediates, who were on the defensive during the greater part of the game. Father Carr has turned out a fourteen which compares well with St. Michael's teams of former years, and which, on the showing made Saturday, looks good to repeat for intermediate honors. The McGill team showed a great improvement over their work in the series with Queen's, and it is safe to say that the squad must improve in its play at least fifty per cent. if they wish to down St. Michael's on their own grounds.

The heavy McGill line did not live up to expectations after the first quarter, and the lighter St. Michael's line did anything the better of the play. Perhaps this is explained by the tricky style of play which the Irishmen adopted, and by their superior speed. The McGill line seemed at times powerless to prevent the gaining of ground through the St. Michael's line plays, and time and again Father Carr's proteges made their yards on straight downs. This is where the heavier McGill line seemed to show to the least advantage. In tackling several members of the Red and White line showed up well while that of others might well be improved. Roseborough, Parkins and Todd did excellent work in this respect, and save the situation on several occasions. Wilkins and Major, who took McLean's place, were useful ground gainers on line plays. Roseborough's end run at the commencement of play was one of the tri-bit of the afternoon's football.

To Willisroff was assigned the kicking of the Red and White, and well he performed his task. His long punts kept the St. Michael's backs on the hop continually, and in comparison with the work of Broderick, who did the kicking for the Irishmen, he undoubtedly had the edge. This advantage was made use of as much as possible by McGill, who played much of the game on the defensive. If there was any fault to find with Willisroff's kicking Saturday, it was that he showed an inclination to place his punts at too great a distance for his wings to get under them. Willisroff's kicking Saturday, however, was his catching in, in which he was far from showing his usual form. His punts were directly responsible for several of St. Michael's big gains, though it is fair to say that he was not in mind that each of McGill's six punts could be traced to Willisroff's booting. Norm Forbes, who played at left half, was perhaps the most deadly tackler on the field Saturday, and showed considerable headwork in his running and passing. Rainboth was used in carrying the ball only at rare intervals, but on the afternoon's showing proved himself a most valuable man. His catching was all that could be desired, while his runs had the crowd on its feet on more than one occasion. Fawcett, at quarter, directed his team well, and made a number of tidy gains through being able to find holes in the St. Michael's line.

The St. Michael's team, on the other hand, was better balanced, and put up a headier and more reliable brand of football. Father Carr had evidently taken the fullest advantage of their superior speed, and all his plays were modelled with a view to using this as much as possible. It was in their offensive tactics that St. Michael's showed up best, and in using these they got away with a good deal of interference. The St. Michael's back division worked well together, and was responsible for most of the Irishmen's success. Corkery was the most spectacular performer of the afternoon, and seemed slippery as an eel while carrying the ball. Canfield was an able second, but fell short in his catching. Broderick was used only in kicking. Beck's lightness told against his play at quarter, though he made a number of useful gains. The St. Michael's line was well balanced, fast, and evidently well trained in tackling. Ryan, who was a candidate for the senior Varsity team earlier in the season, did not create so favorable an impression by his work as he did in the series last year. He is a dangerous man at all times, however, and seems always where he is most needed.

The campus was in better shape than might have been expected, when the rains of the past week and the number of class games which have been played lately are taken into account. The field seemed to have dried perceptibly, and at the start of the game the footing was quite good. In the third quarter, however, a snow flurry sprang up, and this soon had the field in a slippery condition, which appeared to tell against the style of play used by Father Carr's fourteen. Before the game was ended it had become quite dark, and only with difficulty could identity of the players or the location of the ball be determined from the stands.

On account of counter attractions there was only a sprinkling of McGill supporters on hand for the game. When Frank Common took charge of the team, nevertheless, they managed to put up a fairly creditable McGill yell.

First Quarter.

McGill won the toss and took the advantage of the slight wind. Broderick kicked off and Roseborough ran it back to St. Michael's 25-yard line. Willisroff kicked over on the next down, and Canfield was forced to rouge. McGill 1, St. Michael's 0.

St. Michael's marched slowly down the field until within striking distance of McGill's line lost the ball on interference. Willisroff kicked and Canfield dropped. McGill secured the ball, and on the next down Willisroff kicked over to Canfield, who was forced to rouge. McGill 2, St. Michael's 0.

McGill secured the ball at half way mark, but lost it a minutes after on interference. St. Michael's buck for yards, but lost the ball to McGill on the latter's 25. Willisroff kicked in touch, and by two bucks and a long run St. Michael's brought the ball to McGill's 10-yard line. Forbes was laid out, but resumed again. Willisroff kicked on the first down, and Canfield returned. Quarter over; score, McGill 2, St. Michael's 0.

Second Quarter.

McGill took possession of the ball, and by a series of bucks and a long run by Wilkins bring the ball to St. Michael's 15-yard line. Willisroff kicked into own scrimmage, but recovered. Willisroff kicked on first down and Parkins downed Canfield for McGill's third tally.

St. Michael's take ball down field, but lost to McGill, and on third down Willisroff kicked over the dead line. McGill 5, St. Michael's 0.

St. Michael's bring the ball down the field, but McGill secured and Roseborough carried it back on a run. Willisroff kicked over to Corkery, who was downed. McGill 5, St. Michael's 0.

St. Michael's secure the ball on McGill's 35-yard line, and Broderick kicked to dead line. St. Michael's secure on off-side and Broderick kicked to Roseborough, who ran it back to the half line. Tally time, McGill 5, St. Michael's 1.

Third Quarter.

Play resumed with St. Michael's in possession of the ball, but McGill securing on their 35-yard line. Willisroff kicked over dead line. McGill 6, St. Michael's 1.

St. Michael's marched down the field, gaining on bucks, and after a beautiful run by Corkery Brown went over for a try, which was not converted. McGill 6, St. Michael's 6. Both teams playing a kicking game now, and the quarter ended with the score tied.

Fourth Quarter.

St. Michael's began forcing the play, and gradually got the ball within striking distance of the McGill line, and Broderick kicked over to Roseborough, who was downed for a rouge. St. Michael's 7, McGill 6.

The last part of the quarter was played in the rain, and the ball was hard to handle. St. Michael's scored another point when Canfield kicked to the dead line. The final score was 8-6 in favor of the St. Michael's.

The teams lined up as follows: McGill, Position, St. Michael's.

VARSETY'S ADVANTAGE IN WEIGHT MAINLY RESPONSIBLE FOR DEFEAT OF THE RED AND WHITE SATURDAY

repeatedly tried every trick that he knew, and more than once brought the crowd to their feet by almost getting free from the Varsity tacklers; however, they always seemed to be just one more man left, and he would prove the stumbling block. Jeffrey also worked like a Trojan at this stage of the game, but it was too late, and nothing could be done. Jeff seemed to have the last word for the Varsity players to stop at his twisting runs and his way of keeping going after he apparently had been stopped for certain, several times gained fifteen or twenty yards for the Red and White. Pop Paisley had an off day, and fumbled quite often, besides not being able to get his return kicks away as well as usual. Pop, however, made up for a lot of this by pulling off a beautiful tackle on the first down, and had broken loose an only had Pop to pass in order to get clean away. The McGill captain made one of the prettiest plays of the day, and got the man right round the ankles, stopping him in his tracks.

It was on the wing line that the game was won and lost. The Varsity men must have had about fifteen pounds per man on the McGill wings. In the first quarter this advantage did not get much against the McGill team but after that period everything was in Varsity's favor. The Blue and White have a system of blocking down cold, and when they are blocking down cold, they are taking the time when the other could take all the time he wished in which to get his kick away. When McGill was kicking it was a different story. The Varsity wings would either break through or so effectively block the McGill wings from going down under the kicking that the McGill team did not have a fast man on it. The Varsity backs hit the line hard. Cassels, Hughes and Gage all making their yards time and again. Laine's kicking was one of the McGill line by the Varsity wings for their bucks and fake plays to go through. Varsity's system of holding and of making interference is the best which has ever been seen in the Intercollegiate. It was not only on the wing line, however, that the Blue and White got away with heaps of interference, but they blocked the McGill men also on the half back runs, always having a couple of men running head of the ball.

Two or three of Shag's trick plays worked fairly well, but on account of the Varsity wings breaking through it was difficult for the team to pull any of these off. The first of these, however, that did come off was the one where Laine fakes a kick and Jeffrey comes up behind him and takes the ball. This play brought a gain of about twenty yards, and completely fooled the Varsity team. Laine himself faked a kick once, and made about twenty yards round the left end. The X-Y formation gained a few yards for the Red and White the only time it was tried.

The real break in the game came in the fourth quarter, when Referee Slater over-ruled the umpire's decision, and declared that Carr had been given no yards by Ross Laine, on a catch. It looked from the grand stand as if the Varsity men had the required distance, but the referee was sure that he had it, and brought the ball back to within a yard of the McGill line. Varsity being easily able to gain that distance on the first down, it was a mistake on the part of the referee. The referee for the Red and White; however, taking into consideration the fairness of all his other rulings, nobody would accuse the referee of showing any partiality in this instance, although it cost McGill the game.

Quilty did practically all the bucking for the Red and White, and was always good for a few yards. He showed wonderful condition, being able to stand up against the heavy attacks of the Blue and White line, and give just as good as he was receiving during the whole contest. Many of Varsity's bucks came to grief because of having run foul of the ex-Ottawa man. Another man on the McGill wing line is behind Varsity's line, and he is due to Buster Reid. If the work of one man could have won the game, McGill would have certainly come off victorious. Buster tackled hard and was blocking about three men besides the down under the kicking with the McGill outside wings. Once he was given the ball to carry, and made about ten yards for his team. It was no child's play being in the centre of the line, or, in fact, being anywhere on the line of the teams of Saturday's game, as lots of hard knocks were handed out. However, it was on the line that most of the rough work took place, and Reid seemed to be the centre of attraction for the Varsity players. Needless to say, Reid stuck right with the Varsity men throughout, and gave as good as he took. Towards the end of the game Demuth and Gage staged a young prize fight for the edification of the spectators, and as a result both drew a rest on the bench. For a minute or two it looked as if the melee was going to be general, but peace was restored, and the game finished without further trouble.

Cassels, who did a great deal of bucking for the Blue and White, was one of the best men, at this part of the game, that has been unearthed in the last few years. All Varsity's bucks, besides having steam roller-like weight behind them, hit the line with good speed, and were sure of making a few yards at least. It looks as if McGill would have to get some more weight on their wing line before they would be able to hold the Blue and White effectively. On Saturday's play, Varsity were the better team, but McGill as a general rule would have the edge on the victors of Saturday if they played as well as they have shown that they can play.

Gage did not show anything very different to what he generally pulls off, his game has grown to possess some features which can always be counted upon to appear, especially if he is being blocked by a man smaller than himself. He did not carry the ball as much as he has been accustomed to do in former games. MacKenzie, who went in when Lindsay was hurt, electrified the crowd by his snappy work. However, not too much stock must be taken in his showing, as it must be remembered that he is a new player, and grown very weak as a result of his battling by the heavier Varsity wings.

Kelly and Woollett were the only two substitutes used by McGill. None of Shag's squad received any serious injuries, but Kennedy and Paisley were going none too well, and the game was nearly over, so Shag sent in the two subs to see what they would show. Woollett handled everything that came his way all right. Varsity fooled

Kelly once on a long pass, but the new man will be thoroughly instructed in every trick of the game, so as to be ready for the play-off, which may have to take place, as McGill should defeat Queen's next Saturday.

A tremendous crowd turned out to witness the contest, and they were well rewarded for the interest shown. It was a perfect day for football. The Varsity Rooters were out in force, and did some very fine cheering and singing. They have a system of forming color designs with pieces of paper, forming a large red M on a white background, and a large white V on a blue background. The crowd went wild when Varsity scored the touch which put them in the lead, and everywhere down town in Toronto on Saturday vivid scenes were being pulled off, though there was no organized parade by the beautiful Varsity Cadets, which consisted of about one hundred supporters, while a great number of graduates were in town for the game. Chuck Waterous was on the side lines, as were several other old McGill stars.

THE PLAY.

The McGill team trotted out first. They were greeted with their yell, given by the Varsity rooters. Varsity are now filling out to a continuous roar from the packed stands. They are a husky lot, and look very business like. Laine, Griffith and Gage are having a confab at centre field. Shag is nowhere to be seen, but is probably somewhere in the vicinity. They are lining up for the start. Varsity has the south and McGill the north end. There is little advantage from position.

Laine kicked off to Stratton, who returned to Jeffrey at centre. Varsity secured a loose ball and kicked on the first down. Laine kicked to Carr, who returned to Jeff. Jeff was downed in his tracks. Laine kicked to Shedy, who passed to Lindsay. He made a slight gain.

McGill 7, Varsity 4.

Lindsay kicks to Jeffrey, who gets it on. Laine kicks, but Carr does not get yards. Varsity gain ball one yard out, and on the first down Lindsay bucks over for a touchdown. The Varsity rooters are jubilant, as they think the game is won. They may be right, but McGill has lots of fight left in them. Lindsay is hurt and retires, and MacKenzie comes on. Carr fails to convert the touchdown. Score: McGill 7, Varsity 5.

BRILLIANT!

(Brookville Times.)

A number of students at McGill University were in town today en route to Toronto, where the football team from that college will play Varsity tomorrow. The students had a lively time at the station. Two of the number purchased two leaves of bread, which they used as a football to go through some signal practice preparatory to their big game. The students amused a number of spectators.

MCGILL RUGBY TEAM IS ON TOP OF HEAP IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Team of Good Calibre and Has Only Suffered One Defeat

The rugby team of McGill College of British Columbia is still at the top of the heap in the senior section of the Vancouver city rugby series, although tied with the Y.M.C.A. for first place. McGill experienced little difficulty beating the Cadets by two tries and a goal to nothing last Saturday. The Cadets played a strong game during the first period and kept their opponents from crossing the line, but in the closing half they weakened and the league leaders had matters pretty much their own way. McGill played good football in the second half, and were clearly entitled to their victory, says the Vancouver Province.

The standing in the senior Vancouver Rugby League is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Draws	Pts.
McGill	4	1	0	8
Y. M. C. A.	4	1	0	8
101st Cadets	2	2	0	4
Law Students	2	1	0	4
Crusaders	1	2	0	2
Rowing Club	1	3	0	2

STORY OF GAME WAS WELL RECEIVED BY STUDENTS SATURDAY

Spectators at the McGill-St. Michael's Game Well Informed about Toronto Match

Much favorable comment was expressed by members of the McGill home guard in connection with the arrangements made by the Students' Council and the McGill Daily by which a running story of the game at Toronto was received on the campus here during the progress of the game between St. Michael's and McGill.

As the news of the game came over the wire, each important play was carefully noted by the special Daily representative. It was run off on a typewriter and the typewritten sheet placed in the hands of the announcer, Harry O'Leary, who gave the news to the crowd. Jack Hall, the originator of the scheme, which has proved so much an advance over former methods of handling the news of the big games, was also on hand. If there was one hitch in the arrangements it was in the delay in relaying the news from the stand to the bleachers on the other side of the campus. Perhaps this could be remedied in future games by having duplicate copies of the despatches typewritten and two announcers.

The news of McGill's initial success in the game was received with the utmost interest and evidence of enthusiasm by the crowd. The news reached here shortly after the commencement of play in the local contest. When half time came with the score 7-3 for the Red and White, and the despatch told of Varsity's strength making itself felt, speculation was rife as to whether McGill would be able to maintain the lead in the scoring. As the Varsity score mounted, the local supporters did not lose heart, and even when Varsity assumed the lead, still looked over a McGill score to again set matters right. The St. Michael's team went wild with delight when the scoring of Varsity's touchdown was announced. The crowd did not abandon hope until the final score was made public, and this they received with quiet resignation. There was, of course, no attempt at a procession or other demonstration, and the game quickly dispersed after the game, quickened in their efforts to seek shelter by the snowstorm which was raging.

and takes some time to recover from the try tackle. On next down he tries a drop but misses. Laine is tackled for a rouge. McGill 7, Varsity 11.

Gage goes down and out, but is able to resume. Laine goes thirty yards around end and later pulls a bone by trying to kick when almost clear away. Varsity secures near centre.

McKenzie kicks to Laine, who returns for a gain. Ball near centre with Varsity in possession. McKenzie makes a big gain. Varsity are thrown back. Kick is prevented, and McGill secures at centre.
